A Conversation with Ramsey, Owner of Urgent Passport & Visa

When you first began working with OSI 20 years ago, what were you hoping to achieve, and how has that journey evolved?

When I joined OSI more than 20 years ago, I was looking for a professional home for my passport and visa business. In this industry, credibility and trust are everything. I needed a space that reflected that. Over time, OSI became more than an office – it became a steady foundation that supported our growth.

What has made your relationship with OSI strong and lasting?

It comes down to consistency. For two decades, OSI has been reliable and professional. They understand what business owners need and have always provided an environment where I can focus on serving my clients.

What would you say to someone considering working with OSI?

If you want to operate in a professional setting and be supported by a dependable team, OSI is a great choice. They make it easier to focus on growing your business while they handle the operational details.
